

Gareth Powell,
Retired Head teacher, Education Consultant.

I have lived in Little Neston for the last 7 years, having moved here from North Wales. I retired as a Head teacher in 2007 and currently support schools across the North West of England in my capacity as a Consultant.

I have been heavily involved in Charity work for over 30 years through sporting and educational fundraising.

I have many interests and hobbies; walking, golf, gardening, family history, travel and music. I have recently published my first novel, a historical adventure.

Throughout my career as a teacher and sports coach I have accompanied hundreds of children on residential, sport, art and educational trips both within these islands and abroad.

I feel well equipped to fully involve myself in the Northern Lights charity having visited Lapland with my own school group.

I am delighted to have been asked to become a committee member of Northern Lights and look forward to taking a full part in supporting the Charity's efforts.
